Pepper Blasts Mosher, Once Head Of NAM

Washington, Feb. 18—(AP)—In a table-thumping session today a leader of the National Association of Manufacturers defended the Taft-Hartley act and Democratic senators replied with an angry attack on the NAM.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) called the organization an "enemy of democracy." He said it is "the spearhead and symbol of reactionary business forces in this country which can't see beyond the end of their noses."

Ira Mosher, a director and former president of NAM, was testifying before the Senate Labor committee in a crowded little room at the capitol.

FIND 3-YEAR-OLD SAFE AFTER NIGHT IN WOODS

Reading, Pa., Feb. 18—(AP)—A 3-year-old boy was found safe in the woods today after being missing for 24 hours. The boy, who was found by a hunter, was in good health and had no injuries.

Three-year-old Billy Abbott vanished at 4:30 p.m. yesterday. A thousand men, women and children pitched into the search. They found him lying in a clump of grass at 1:40 p.m. today.

Billy was rushed to St. Joseph's hospital and dismissed 10 minutes later after an examination disclosed no injury but that his temperature was low.

Michigan Student Will Prove He Can Eat More Than Hog

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 18—(AP)—A University of Michigan student is trying to prove that he is as big a hog as the next one.

Paul H. Smith said today he will match appetites Saturday with a four-month-old hog, to see who can eat the most.

"I will win in a walk," boasted the engineering student from Monroe, Mich. There will be no fasting in advance, he added. He will eat his regular meals Friday night and Saturday morning.

But the hog didn't appear perturbed. "He is the calmest of the broad-view line," bragged his owner, William McCalla, an Ann Arbor area farmer. "He'll give a good account of himself."

They will start eating at 9 a.m. (CST), the student said, and continue for eight hours. The hog will gulp oats, corn and wheat and wash it down with milk and water. He'll be in a truck on State street, the main cross-campus avenue.

Inside a restaurant, Smith will start out on the regular breakfast menu. As the day wears on, he plans to switch to steaks, potatoes and other nourishing viands.

Whoever eats the most food in pounds wins. Both hog and student will weigh in at 165 pounds.

Construction Men Ready To Build 1,500,000 Houses

Washington, Feb. 18—(AP)—Men with hammers and saws and concrete mixers are ready to start building houses at the rate of 1,500,000 a year as soon as Congress gives the go-ahead, a construction union president said today.

Materials as well as skilled construction men again are available in good quantities, Richard J. Gray, president of the building and construction trades department of the AFL, told a Senate banking committee concluding its study of a sheaf of housing bills.

He also said there are enough trained workers to keep up the 1,500,000-a-year housing clip for 10 years. The 15,000,000 total is the AFL's construction goal—"the housing program America needs." It includes the building of 1,000,000 low-cost public housing units in the next four years.

General hearings on the group of housing bills were virtually ended today, Chairman Sparkman (D-Ala.) said he hopes to have a bill ready for Senate consideration by the end of the month.

Medina Says Reds Have No Evidence Of Discrimination

New York, Feb. 18—(AP)—Federal Judge Harold R. Medina indicated today he believed that lawyers for 11 top U.S. communists had no evidence to support their claims that the federal jury-picking system here is discriminatory.

He did so shortly after suddenly halting defense cross-examination of Joseph F. McKenzie, federal jury clerk and the first person called by the government in an effort to refute the discrimination charges.

Defense lawyers termed Medina's action in halting the cross-examination "a violation of due process of law."

When defense lawyer Louis M. Caba arose to protest the ruling, Medina interrupted him to say it was assumed when the defense made its claims that it had evidence to support them—"not that you were going to get it, but that you had it."

"But after five weeks," he said, "you say that if you had a little more time you might find some thing."

A defense lawyer had protested Medina's ruling by saying that if he had time to finish cross-examining McKenzie he could bring out many points to support the jury challenge.

Truman Tells Vets There Are Limits To Pension Plan

Washington, Feb. 18—(AP)—President Truman told the nation's veterans today that "this United States is theirs," but he said in considering veterans' welfare it must be understood there are "certain limits."

And those limits, he said, "cannot be stretched."

Thus indirectly, for the second time in 24 hours, Mr. Truman linked the question of a multi-billion-dollar veterans pension plan with the future of the country's economy.

The President has previously let it be known that there is no place for a veterans pension in his budget at this time.

He did not refer specifically today, however, to a bill by Chairman Rankin (D-Miss.) of the House Veterans committee which would give $90-a-month pension to all veterans of World War I and World War II when they reached the age of 65.

Says Economic Future Bright

BOY, FIVE, STUCK IN MUD FOUR HOURS

Decatur, Ill., Feb. 18—(AP)—Five-year-old Harry Miller wandered off to play in the mud yesterday and stayed longer than he wanted to.

He got stuck in the middle of a freshly graded park field and was stuck to his waist when three boys found him, cold, crying and exhausted.

He had been missing four hours. But today he appeared to have recovered.

Several business men meanwhile spoke out against President Truman's request for standby price-rationing controls as an irritant to business.

But the CIO, in reply, praised the administration's economic proposals, including its request for authority to build steel plants if necessary to meet the need for steel products. The CIO said that if industry is "unable or unwilling to do the job," the government must step in.

Diagnosing Price Declines

At the White House and on Capitol Hill, experts in taking the country's economic pulse were busy trying to diagnose the recent decline in prices and spell out what it portends for the immediate future.

Emerging from a conference with Mr. Truman, Dr. Nourse told news-men that everything will be all right if people will avoid "getting jittery" over what he termed a "healthy" falling off in prices.

As he spoke, reports for Wall Street noted "indecision" in the New York stock market, with supply and demand closely matched and business sluggish. Prices went a bit lower this afternoon.

Traders were reported keeping a sharp eye on Washington events, watching for straws in the wind as to how Congress may act on President Truman's tax, labor and anti-inflation proposals.

May Lead To Recession

Dr. Nourse, chairman of the president's economic advisory council, declared that too many nervous quakes could be "snowballed into a recession."

Explaining his use of the word "disinflation," Dr. Nourse said it is quite different from "deflation."

He said disinflation takes the pressure off prices while deflation could mean a collapse of the price structure.

Dr. Nourse said there are indications that price declines will spread to the so-called heavy and durable industries with forward adjustments in automobiles and steel later this year and on to 1950.

On Capitol Hill, economists, business, labor and farm leaders held a round table clinic on the administration's economic proposals, meeting with the joint congressional economic committee.

Costs Have Passed Peak

Philip Reed, board chairman of the General Electric Co., told the group that the nation's economy is in a delicate, transitional period and that living costs have "passed their peak."

Meyer Kestbaum, president of Hart, Schaffner and Marx, clothing manufacturers, expressed a similar view.

Emerson Schmidt, economist for the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, said if Congress gives Mr. Truman the controls he has requested, it may generate "a very serious recession and perhaps a depression."

James B. Carey, CIO secretary-treasurer, told the group that unless industry boosts production goals to insure full employment, the government should "step in and see that it is done."

Carey said the CIO believes that business "lacks confidence in the future" and is basing its plans on a "depression psychology."

The CIO official said recent price decreases have been wrongly hailed as an end to inflation. Living costs have dropped only two per cent from the all-time high, he said, and there is no guarantee of any continuing downturn.

The joint committee wound up its hearings and roundtable discussions on the president's economic recommendations today. The committee report is to be filed by March 1.

Decatur Has Five Acre Lover's Lane And A Problem

Decatur, Ill., Feb. 18—(AP)—A five-acre spot without a government has become an ideal lovers lane for Decatur couples.

Romance is running full blast. No one cops to interfere and authorities are trying to pass the buck.

The plot in Long Creek township was dedicated to public use in 1924. But neither the township, Macon county or the park district officials seem to want it.

The township seems to be stuck with it, but it says it has no police or money to pay for intrusion on the parking spay.

Meanwhile the neighbors are complaining and the belles and beaux keep right on spooning.

Nourse Warns U.S. Not To Get 'Jitters'

Washington, Feb. 18—(AP)—Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, top economic adviser to President Truman, said today the United States is going through a period of "healthy disinflation," but cautioned that jitters might lead to a recession.

Several business men meanwhile spoke out against President Truman's request for standby price-rationing controls as an irritant to business.

But the CIO, in reply, praised the administration's economic proposals, including its request for authority to build steel plants if necessary to meet the need for steel products. The CIO said that if industry is "unable or unwilling to do the job," the government must step in.

AMA Blames Salt Substitute For Recent Deaths In U.S.

Chicago, Feb. 18—(AP)—The American Medical Association today blamed at least four recent deaths on a common table salt substitute, and the food and drug administration called on persons to "stop using this dangerous poison at once."

Three of the deaths occurred in Cleveland, Ohio, one in Ann Arbor, Mich., and "there is one case in Baltimore that's suspicious," the AMA said.

"It is to be expected that many more cases will be reported within the next few weeks," Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the AMA Journal, said. "We do not know how widely the product has been distributed, but the U.S. food and drug administration has ordered it withdrawn from the market."

The AMA described the substance causing poisoning as lithium chloride. Common table salt is sodium chloride. The principal marketer, the medical association said, is the Westwood Pharmaceutical Corporation of Buffalo, N.Y., which sells the substitute under the commercial name of "Wesal."

"There must be many cases of poisoning that have not been reported," Dr. Fishbein said. "It is imperative to take action if not known."

Terms Of Pact Still In Doubt

PAIR AWARDED $25,000 IN DAMAGE SUIT

Pittsburgh, Feb. 18—(AP)—Mrs. Mary Regas and her husband, Peter, of 354 South 14th street, Pekin, Ill., were awarded $25,000 today by an Allegheny county common pleas court jury as the result of an automobile collision here June 16, 1948.

The Pittsburgh Railway Co. was the defendant in the action. Mrs. Regas claimed she suffered permanent back and other injuries when the auto she was driving was run over by a street car.

There were indications that a plea dealing with Goodale's case will be delivered to the Czechoslovak foreign office next week. The foreign office has not yet answered other protests about the stripping and searching of U. S. embassy personnel leaving Czechoslovakia late last year.

Drop Indictments
Against 5 Persons
In Shelton Probe

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 18—(AP)—Sensational Peoria grand jury charges against three public officials, a newspaper reporter and three gangland figures smoldered down today to one lone indictment.

A circuit judge dismissed 13 true bills against five persons which resulted from investigations of gambling conditions last summer.

The other three indictments had been quashed earlier.

The indictments had been returned by two grand juries in an investigation touched off by the rifle-slaying last July 26 of gangster Bruce Shelton.

Five of the indictments were voted by the recalled June grand jury after its members had listened to recordings of a conversation in which a purported emissary of Roy P. Hull, then Peoria county state attorney, sought a $25,000 bribe Shelton in exchange for quashing assault indictments against him and two others.

The surviving indictment is one which charges Hull with soliciting a bribe from Shelton. It probably will be tried in March.

Question 2 Men
In Abortion Death
Of Chicago Widow

Chicago, Feb. 18—(AP)—Two Chicago men questioned today about the abortion death of a young Chicago widow stated they had been intimate with the woman, Detective Sgt. Nick Reidy reported.

The battered body of Mrs. Roberta S. Danks, 26, was found at dawn yesterday on a road near Michigan City.

Coroner Theodore Makovsky said an abortion had been performed on her three to seven days previously, that the operation had been bungled and peritonitis and gangrene caused the woman's death.

Sgt. Reidy and Sheriff Lester Hine and prosecutor Goldie L. Burns of Porter County, Ind., questioned five Chicago friends of Mrs. Danks in an effort to throw some light on her death.

Sgt. Reidy said one of the men questioned identified a nurse found near the body as one he had given her a present, but denied he knew she was pregnant. The other man, Reidy said, denied plugging with her a trip to Indiana for an abortion.

SELLS CAR BY THE POUND

Sturgeon Bay, Wis., Feb. 18—(AP)—Maybe it's cheaper by the pound. Bulcher Francis Ripp advertised his 1937 model automobile for sale. He asked "11 cents a pound."

Ripp said he's had a lot of calls, but hadn't closed the sale yet.

Senate Can't Agree On Use Of Words

Senators Can't Agree On Use Of Words

Washington, Feb. 18—(AP)—An important huddle between Secretary of State Acheson and senators failed today to produce immediate agreement on the wording of a proposed North Atlantic defense pact to strengthen the west against Communism.

But another meeting will be held soon to continue the hunt for acceptable language. The thorniest problem is how for the United States shall go in promising aid to nations which might suffer aggression.

The meeting between Acheson and the Senate Foreign Relations committee lasted for three hours. Afterward Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) told newsmen:

"You can't even say any tentative agreement was reached."

No Disagreement On Necessity

While committee members were pledged to secrecy, there were strong hints that there is no disagreement a security pact is necessary. The only question seems to be the form it will take.

Connally announced "it will be some little time yet before it is ready to be made public."

"Several suggestions were made on a phrase here and a word there," he said.

Connally and Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) have said flatly they will not agree to a treaty which commits this country in advance to go to war in case any of the signatories is attacked.

Connally says his objection does not extend to measures short of war. But he argues that only Congress has the constitutional right to plunge the United States into armed conflict.

Some Ask Strong Commitments

Some of the negotiators for western European nations have been urging the United States to make the strongest possible commitment to act in case of war.

Thus the state department is faced with the ticklish task of trying to arrive at wording which will be acceptable to the senate, yet provide the western Europeans with a sense of security.

Connally and other committee members have out very little information about what went on behind the closed doors.

Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) said there was a "general discussion of the philosophy of the agreement."

Hickenlooper himself favors a pact which would commit this country to go to the immediate aid of any member attacked.

The treaty, which would be subject to senate confirmation, is being negotiated with Canada, rest Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Defense Witness Turns Accuser At 'Axis Sally' Trial

Washington, Feb. 18—(AP)—A defense witness turned in sudden accusation against Mildred E. (Axis Sally) Gullah at her treason trial today, shouting that she threatened American soldiers in a German prison camp in 1944.

Another witness testified that Miss Gullah "tried to quit" her broadcasting job for the Nazi wartime radio, but was "threatened" by a German official.

The surprise twist came when Gunnar Drangsholt, of Chicago, an ex-GI, was called by the defense to answer a single question.

Defense Attorney James J. Laughlin asked Drangsholt if Miss Gullah had posed as a Red Cross worker when she came to make recorded interviews with American war prisoners at Stalag 2-B in Germany.

Drangsholt, now a student at Northwestern University, said she did not.

Then in a dramatic outburst, shouting over Laughlin's angry protests, the witness glared at Miss Gullah and told the jury:

"She threatened us as she left—that American citizen, that woman right there!"

IF WE ARE TO HAVE PLANNING IT MUST BE DONE CORRECTLY

A short while back President Truman made a speech in defense of economic planning. He granted that planning was a word that scared certain people. But his contention was that these frightened people were confusing planned economy with controlled economy. The President himself, unless we misread him, seems to see a sharp division between the two.

Yet planning implies a preparation for action. And in a planned course of action there are components that must be directed in such a way that the action comes out according to plan. Otherwise there wouldn't seem to be much sense in planning in the first place.

It may be that Mr. Truman meant that a planned economy is one in which the government draws up a blueprint and private business voluntarily undertakes the action, with its accompanying controls. A controlled economy, by Mr. Truman's definition, might be one in which the government would guide the course of action only if business refused to co-operate or failed to achieve the government's economic goal.

This might explain the "stand-by controls" that Mr. Truman requested in his State of the Union message. These are part of his economic planning, but apparently are only or use in emergency.

At any rate, we imagine that a planned and controlled economy might be acceptable to the great majority of Americans under certain conditions. If government planners could somehow guarantee that they could control the business cycle and prevent depressions, and if they could also guarantee that there would be no unfair discrimination against private business, we doubt that the most rugged champion of laissez-faire economics would raise serious objections.

Nobody wants a depression, of course, because nobody gains anything by it in the long run. But can the government guarantee a preventive? At present, the answer would certainly be no. Government means not only the Executive branch but also Congress, which writes the laws and does out the money. And the last time we looked, there were several divergent economic viewpoints in both these departments.

Some government economists are worrying about a depressing drop in prices and employment. They produce figures to justify their fears. Others say the danger is still inflation. They also cite figures to prove their point.

To some people planning, like nationalization, is a sort of magic, cure-all word. But planning is simply the opinion of an individual or group of individuals.

There are all sorts of economic planning going on in government today. But who are the planners? How have their economic prophecies panned out? What is their objective now? What is the evidence that it is the right one? Mr. Truman and Congress will have to agree on the answers to those questions. It obviously isn't enough just to have a planned economy. It must be correctly planned.

POP Goes the QUEEN

By Bob Wade and Bill Miller

THE STORY: John Henry and Sin Conover, vacationing at a swank resort, witness the death of a mysterious man named Homer Anglin. Later the Conover quarters are occupied by Faye Jordan, under the pretext of a reservation mixup, and their investigation is arrested. But the searchers failed to find a cipher message in a mechanical pencil that Anglin put in Johnny's pocket before he died. Believing they have been called "Mr. and Mrs. Jones," Johnny and Sin try to question other suspicious folk at the resort. Sin is told not to "interfere" by Sergeant Robertson, an arch-bureaucrat. Faye takes Johnny to a gambling ranch where Johnny suddenly finds himself in company with Lieutenant Lay, the police officer who is investigating Anglin's murder and who thinks Johnny hasn't told all he knows.

XVII
"MORNING," John Henry replied shamefacedly and seized the rye. Faye had already downed hers and was regarding Lay with interest.

She asked, "What's your racket, stranger?"

"This is Lieutenant Lay of the Azure police, Faye," said John Henry, digging an elbow in her ribs.

She giggled. "I like policemen."

"Well," said John Henry nervously, "good to have seen you again, Lieutenant. Now, if you'll excuse us—"

"Don't run off," said Lay evenly and his tone made John Henry sink back onto the bar stool again. "I haven't seen you playing out there, Mr. Conover. What could you be doing here? Here, of all places."

"Go ahead, Johnny," Faye urged. "Tell him."

"It's very simple," he said. "I don't know."

"See!" Triumphantly, she downed the second shot glass of rye which the barkeep had quickly refilled. After a moment's consideration, she also drank Conover's fresh jiggerful.

"You wouldn't be figuring on following up Anglin's killing, would you?" asked Lay. He toyed with the tall glass of beer that glinted before him on the bar.

John Henry's pulse raced. "Why? Do you think this is the place for it?"

"I didn't say that. I was just surprised to see you without your wife."

"Convenient," said Lay and took a sip of beer. He put his glass down and gazed through the archway at the midday turbulence in the other room. "Yeah," he said, as if continuing a conversation, "it's illegal, all right, Conover. But in a hopped-up town like this there's some things a cop has to keep his eyes closed about. It's not as if it was my department."

He looked at John Henry and smiled sardonically. "Here's to crime." He raised his beer.

John Henry lifted his own glass, saw that it was empty and remembered Faye. The black-haired girl was in the front row at the roulette table arguing with the polite croupier. "I better go over," Conover said.

"WHAT'S the trouble now, Faye?" he asked, elbowing up behind her.

"Johnny!" she squealed with delight. "I'm so glad you could come!"

"You brought me, remember?" "This madman," explained Faye, gestulating at the croupier who had hated his roulette wheel. "He won't let me play! Sock him in the nose, Johnny."

The eyes of the crowd turned appraisingly on her selected champion. John Henry felt the blood coloring the back of his neck. He fastened determined fingers on Faye's soft shoulder. "Come on!" he grunted and propelled her away from the table toward the door at the far end of the casino.

No one was playing the slot machines. John Henry halted there and spun the girl sharply around to face him. "Now snap out of it, Faye," John Henry grated. "You had a reason for bringing me out here. What was it?"

Faye's sleek braided head nodded slowly. "Gotta have words. Got something I wanna tell you," she whispered.

"What is it?"

"Okay. We'll go back to the car." Still holding Faye's left arm firmly, he opened the heavy door next to the slot machines and pushed her out into the dimness of the entrance hall. The closing door sliced off the light and the excited moan of conversation with one swift stroke.

JOHN HENRY put the concealing drape back in place. The sudden change from glare to gloom made his head feel funny.

Faye had prowled away down the long corridor. She opened the door to what appeared a combination library and den.

"In here," she whispered. He followed her in. The room was stuffy. John Henry went across to the open window that broke the wall of books. No air at all seemed to enter the library.

Faye had closed the door and was peeling back into the hall through the keyhole.

"What are you looking for?" he asked. The carpet tilted a little while he focused on her. He reached for the desk to steady himself and it moved away. Faye got up and walked toward him.

John Henry squinted. She was walking up hill and she got farther away. Then there were two of her, a dozen, a whole roomful.

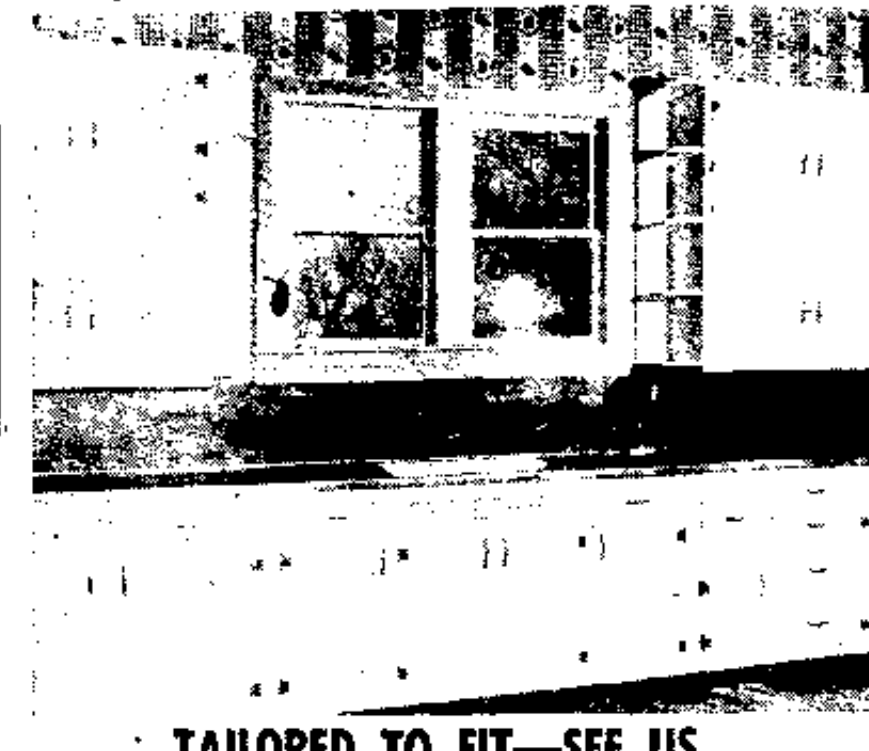

He couldn't count Faye Jordan any more because all of her were performing a weird dance that glided around him, faster and faster. The last thing he heard was the chorus of Faye, giggling.

Singers Of This City Appear In Several Programs

The Jacksonville SPEBSQSA has been active this month in putting on several entertainments in neighboring towns. The Superior Four sang Feb. 5 at the high school carnival at Arenzville. With the help of local amateur acts, the chorus and several local quartets put on a show Feb. 11 for the American Legion of Waverly to dedicate its new home. A large crowd made the venture a success. A bus has been chartered and the entire chorus is to go to Bloomington on Sunday, Feb. 20, to participate in a Parade of Quartets, held annually. This is one of the largest shows of its kind, and the best attended.

The Jacksonville chapter of the help of several acts from this city will put on a show Thursday, Feb. 24, at Versailles to raise money for the Christian church there. About 50 people from Jacksonville will take part.

On Wednesday, March 3, the chapter plans to have a supper and ladies' night for its members and others who so kindly gave their time to make these ventures possible. A committee of Donald Schumaker, Marion Woods and Everett Baldwin has charge of arrangements for the event, which will be held at the Amvets hall on West State street.

Name Greene Co. Chairman For Red Cross Drive

Carrollton—Henry Gohn, Jr., has been named county chairman of the 1949 Red Cross fund campaign which opens March 1. He will announce his chairman at a later date.

The Red Cross drive is an annual affair and one with which all are familiar as they are also with the work of the Red Cross. Through the services of C. W. Bellard, home services chairman of the county, and Mrs. Henscher, Hackley, the executive secretary, the Greene County chapter has assisted 250 families in 1948. Most of this aid was given to servicemen, veterans and their dependents and involved a great deal of correspondence by letter, wire or telephone.

Disaster Relief was given to three families in the county occasioned by fires in which they lost their homes and all contents.

A large part of the service of the county chapter is in cooperation with the Veterans Administration in adjudication of claims filed by veterans. Other services are in assisting veterans and their families who are required to move from one point to another and need assistance, sometimes financial and sometimes in contacting relatives.

HOSTESS TO CLUB

Mrs. Allen was in charge of the program and presented a magazine article on poetry. Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Millermen Take Win From Augustana Five

Al Miller and his Blueboy cagers tightened their hold on the second place in the CCI cage conference, and still proved themselves a threat for top spot in the league standings last night when they dumped Augustana 68 to 58 at Rock Island.

Gross, Murrin Feed Out
The Holtoppers lost two regulars immediately after the second half opened, when Gross and Murrin both chalked up too many personal fouls and were forced to leave the bout early.

Don Longer and Bob Grove led the Blueboy offensive all the way. With the two 10 stalwart hitting the nets steadily, the locals pulled into a 39-25 edge over the Augies at the intermission.

Ericksen Scores 29 Points
Ericksen, Augie pivot man, was the leading scorer in the fray. The lanky cager netted 21 points during the bout.

This win gives the Millermen a 6-1 conference standing, while the league-leading 11, Wesleyan cut it to 7-1 standing in the loop. If both clubs finish out the season with only a single defeat, they'll split the first place prize between them.

Crimson Crew Drops 68 To 60 Tussle To Beardstown At DP

Bob Kraushaar's Crimson five dropped a close, free-fouling hard-wood bout to the Beardstown quint on the DP planks last night, and failed once again to regain possession of the "striped jug," an inter-school trophy, which the Carter coached crew won in basketball last year, and kept through the gridiron season by virtue of a tie over the local footballers.

Officials in last night's cage go called 64 personal fouls and 3 technicals for a grand total of 67 breaches of the rules. Twenty-eight of the fouls were called on the locals, while the officials caught the Beardstown crew in the act of committing the remainder of the personal, and the trio of technicals.

Both coaches were forced to dip down deep into their reserve strength as the game wore on, and regulars left the bout. Gerald Busey, Crimson guard, was the first to go, leaving the tussle early in the third stanza. He was followed by Trotter, another of Kraushaar's pupils, while Nick Carter watched Moore, Yost, Fisher, Krohe and Lovkamp take early showers.

The melee started on fairly even terms with the two quints slaying even for the initial 10 points. The visiting crew rallied in the latter half of the first period, and forged into a 19-10 lead to close the first eight minutes of play.

The Cartermen continued to drive in the second stanza and pushed into a 36 to 18 lead over the local aggregation at the intermission. Four of the starting Beardstown five hit the hoop at a steady pace in this second-quarter spurge, to put them far out in front of the Crimson five at the half-time break.

After the 10-minute rest period, the Cartermen crew again stayed on even terms with the Beardstown five, as both teams marked 18 tallies in this frame, which gave the visitors a 55 to 37 advantage going into the last frame. Harvey Meyer, substitute Crimson pivot man, went wild in the third and last stanza—chalking up 19 points, and generally giving the Beardstown five a bad time.

Both teams were weakened considerably in the last inning by loss of players on personals. Bill Williams.

Man Arrested Here Is Connected With 'Confusing Case'

Law enforcement officers of three counties were puzzled Friday night over a case that involved a missing wife, a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, a wrecked automobile, a long taxi-cab ride, conflicting stories and plenty of confusion.

Leonard Firebaugh, 22 year old McDonough man employed at the Caterpillar plant in Peoria, was arrested in Morgan county Friday by Sheriff Ralph Bourn. Firebaugh made the trip here in a taxicab operated by a Peoria firm.

Peoria police said his wife was in Peoria hospital suffering from head injuries sustained when their 1948 two-tone Oldsmobile was wrecked on Route 24 near Mapleton, Peoria county. Officers said the car caught fire and was completely destroyed.

Betty Cunningham, 17, of Bushnell was reported being held in the Peoria county jail.

The Knox county sheriff's office said deputies would be in Jacksonville Saturday to return Firebaugh on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of the girl.

Firebaugh told officials here that the Cunningham girl and his wife, good friends, left Peoria in his car Sunday. He heard they were in Jacksonville and grabbed a taxi for an expensive ride to this city.

Here he was arrested for the Knox county sheriff, who had described him as "good looking with black hair, a good dresser." Knox county officers said the girl's father, alarmed by her absence, believed she was with Firebaugh.

Nearly everybody connected with the case Friday night thought they knew more about it later.

Good Government The Issue Before Voters - Hoagland

"The main issue in this campaign is good government," Ernest L. Hoagland declared Friday night in addressing a crowd of second ward voters at a meeting held at the Lafayette school. "I believe," Hoagland said, "that any man seeking a city office should make known to the people just where he stands on the vital problems facing the community."

Winding up a series of public meetings held in each of the city's four wards, Mayor Hoagland urged every citizen to vote next Tuesday for the candidate of his choice and conviction.

"Our administration has, and will, cooperate with every civic group which is striving for the good of the community. There have been no closed sessions of the city council and we have at all times maintained an 'open door policy,'" the Republican candidate said.

Hoagland described briefly the duties of mayor. "It is not a job," he explained, "which can be met upon any eight o'clock to five o'clock schedule. It requires irregular hours and many evening duties."

State's Attorney Albert W. Hall, former city attorney, introduced Mayor Hoagland. Hall declared and branded as false what he termed "subtle insinuations" that this Republican administration did not have the interests of the people at heart.

State Representative Hugh Green, former Speaker of the House, was present at the meeting and Elmer E. McNeil, one of the Republican candidates for alderman in the second ward was also introduced.

An hour's program of entertainment was provided by Merritt Caldwell, legerdemain artist, the Illinois College quartet, Raymond Stewart with his harmonica, and Marjorie Frasier, accordionist.

Hoagland said that he would conclude his campaign with a direct radio address to the people on station WLDS Sunday at 1:15 o'clock p.m.
